

For Immediate Release – County of Berks

County of Berks Offices and Courthouse Closed on Monday, January 26

Reading, PA— 01/24/2026 — Berks County has made the decision to close all county buildings to the public on Monday, January 26, 2026, due to the impending winter storm. Employees working in 24/7 operations should follow protocol for those operations. All other employees should telework from home if possible. This decision follows significant deliberation and is based on the following factors:

- Pennsylvania Emergency Declaration: State officials have declared an emergency in anticipation of hazardous conditions.
- Weather Authority Guidance: Forecasts confirm that Berks County will experience significant snowfall, severely impacting the Monday morning commute.
- City of Reading Snow Emergency: For more information visit www.ReadingPA.gov
- Numerous Berks County Municipalities also declaring Snow Emergencies: Please check with your local municipality for details.

What Residents Should Do

- Prepare Now: Stock up essential supplies, charge devices, and plan for travel disruptions.
- Check on Neighbors: Please reach out to neighbors, especially those who live alone or have special needs to ensure they have what they need.
- Call 911 Only for True Emergencies: Keep emergency lines open for life-threatening situations.
- Follow Local Directives: Adhere to snow emergency routes and guidance from your municipality and the City of Reading.
