County of Berks – Press Alert

Paige Riegner resigns from Berks County Elections Director position

Reading, PA— 8/2/2022 — Berks County Elections Director Paige Riegner submitted her resignation from the position last Friday, effective immediately. Riegner served as the Director of the Office of Election Services since February.

The County of Berks does not typically announce separations, but county leaders wanted to inform the community of this change due to the heightened public scrutiny and attention on elections. The County of Berks remains firmly committed to a fair and open election process and will continue to support the staff in the Office of Election Services as they prepare for the General Election this fall.
